Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Priestleyana Recently there came from Northumberland, Pennsylvania, the old home of the discoverer of oxygen, a library, or perhaps it would be better to say the remnant of a library. On examination it was found to contain books once the property of the eminent scientist; but, with the genuine Priestleyana were other volumes which could not possibly have come under the eye of the aged exile. The original manuscript of Priestley s Memoirs - his autobiography - was the first of the real relics to arrest attention. Its lines had been indited by Priestley! His hand had rested on every page! It is a precious, priceless manuscript. Its pages are seared and yellow, but the handwriting is most distinct and legible. Autograph lovers would delight to possess it. Numerous are the references made to a manuscript of a Dickens story, or perhaps to that of a poem by Gray, or fascinating sketches by Thackeray - with a money value attached to them. But the manuscript of the Memoirs brings a story of the unfolding of a life, given to the welfare of others, accompanied with a potent impulse to extend the borders of human knowledge. Among the old books there was also a silhouette photograph of Joseph Priestley, the younger, who so greatly endeared himself to all lovers of his distinguished father by his beautiful and constant devotion to the latter.
