New Seattle is a Shining City, one of the few remaining oases of civilization left in the world, but it isn t without it s problems. That s where I come in. I m a hunter; a mage employed by the Faction to hunt down Fallen mages and bring them in dead or alive. It s a good gig, and one I ve been doing for years. I have a reputation, or notoriety, depending on how you see things, and more enemies than I can count. Now one of those enemies is trying to frame me for a terrible crime I didn t commit, and the worst part is my own people can t look me in the eye and tell me they know I m innocent. My only choice is to run away from the only life I ve ever known, and figure out who is going out of their way to put me down. Cut off from my friends and the people I once relied on for backup, I reluctantly accept the help of a man wanted for questioning concerning his potential ties to the Fallen. But how am I supposed to trust someone who could be a terrorist? Then again, how can he trust me? Proving my innocence will be the hardest thing I ve ever done, but before I can do that I m going to have to learn the truth about the world I live in, and uncover the lies I ve been told my whole life.
